- The company launched a strategic collaboration with Google Cloud to accelerate AI-powered analytics in investment decision-making.
- In Q4 2024, MSCI reported a 7.7% increase in revenues year-over-year, reaching $743.5 million, with asset-based fees growing by 20.8% compared to Q4 2023.

Technical Analysis

According to the 1st figure, stock's price is surpassing both of the MA indicating a strong support that's forming and a buy signal. On the other hand, if we check the CCI we see that it is dipping below -100 showing us that selling pressure is overwhelming the buying pressure. Furthermore, on the 3rd figure we see the Aroon up crossing forcefully the Aroon down which means that the sellers were a lot stronger but lately it managed to retrace and get above the Aroon down. Moving to the 4th figure DMI negative is crossing above the DMI positive signaling a bearish momentum. Finally, the 5th figure shows that RSI is declining after reaching the 60 levels and getting close to the 30 levels, and the oversold territory.

Prediction

Both fundamental and technical analyses present a mixed-to-cautiously optimistic outlook for MSCI Inc. The company is exhibiting strong growth, supported by its ESG initiatives, AI-powered analytics through its partnership with Google Cloud,
